

What's Wrong?

Psalm 14

Something Wrong with Creation?

- ❑ The Bible says, “In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth” (Genesis 1:1). “God created man in his own image ... male and female he created them” (1:27a). “God saw all that he had made, and it was very good” (1:31a).
- ❑ There was nothing wrong with God’s original creation. However, as we consider our world today, many problems are evident. It is apparent that many things are “wrong” in this world.
 1. What is the evidence that many things are “wrong” in this world?¹

Something Wrong with People?

- ❑ As Psalm 14 says, there is obviously something wrong with people. Read Psalm 14.
- ❑ In verse 1, the psalmist mentions “the fool.” This designation is assigned by God, who “looks down from heaven on mankind² (v. 2a).
 2. What are the characteristics of “the fool,” based on verses 1-4?³ What words are used to describe “the fool?”⁴
 3. According to the psalmist, how is the fool’s behavior connected to his/her relationship with God?⁵

Reflection

- What do you “say in your heart?” Maybe you struggle with faith in God, but something in your heart motivates you to seek truth & seek God. That is not foolish! Keep seeking!

² ‘mankind’ – literally ‘sons of men’ (bene ’adam) – the most general and widespread term for ‘human beings.’

³ The phrase ‘there is no God’ is not necessarily an absolute denial of God’s existence (i.e., atheism), but rather an expression of ‘practical or functional atheism.’ ‘The functional atheist is not concerned so much with the theoretical question as to the existence of God; rather, he lives and behaves as if God did not exist. Indeed, the functional atheist may well admit [God’s existence], but affirms by his speech and behavior that such existence is irrelevant.’ Meanwhile, many atheists are relatively moral compared to other people, including people who claim to believe in God. (Peter Craigie, Psalms 1-50 [Waco, TX: Word Books, 1983], 126.)

⁴ ‘corrupt,’ ‘vile (evil, wicked) deeds’ (v. 1b); ‘has turned aside,’ ‘corrupt’ (v. 3b); ‘does not do good’ (vv. 1b, 3b); does not understand; does not seek God (v. 2b, 4a); ‘does not call on the LORD’ (v. 4b).

⁵ The primary characteristics of the ‘fool’ (nābāl) are moral in nature, but the basis of morality is God. Thus the root problem is not behavior, but lack of understanding (relative to God) and lack of seeking God (vv. 2-4). Thus they fail to know God (through His self-revelation) and fail to have a relationship with Him (by His grace). This fundamental problem is traced to ‘the fall of man’ (Genesis 3), where the first humans valued moral autonomy and independence over submission to God, thus dishonoring Him and rejecting His authority. The ‘fool’ may be a highly intelligent person, but true wisdom is the wisdom of God. As the Bible says, ‘The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding’ (Proverbs 9:10; cp. 1:7). Speaking of those who rejected God, Paul says, ‘Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools’ (Romans 1:22; see 1:18-32).

Effects of Wrong

- ❑ The psalmist makes it clear that wrong behavior harms others. Evildoers are “corrupt” (v. 1b, 3a). This corruption spoils and infects the surrounding world (like a moral pollution).
- ❑ In particular, evildoers shamelessly mistreat their fellow human beings. They overpower and humiliate the poor and weak (v. 6a). Such behavior is as natural to them as eating bread (4b).
- ❑ However, the evildoers are on the wrong side; thus they fear (v. 5). For God is with the righteous and poor, and He is their “refuge” (place of safety and security) (vv. 5b, 6b).⁶

Extent of Wrong

4. As you read Psalm 14, what immediately comes to mind? Who are the “evildoers” in your world? ⁷ (Be careful what you say!)
5. What is the extent of wrong (sin)⁸ within the human race? Consider Romans 3:9-12, 23. In what ways does it affect each one of us?

- ❑ In Romans, Paul quotes from Psalm 14:1-3 as part of his teaching on the universality of sin. “All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God” (3:23). The necessary result of sin is “death” (6:23a) – both physical and spiritual. “Spiritual death” is alienation from God, who is the Source of life. This is the natural condition of every human being in our fallen state.

Deliverance from Wrong

- ❑ The psalm ends with an expressed desire for salvation and restoration (v. 7). Though this is expressed in terms of Israel,⁹ its ultimate fulfillment is relevant to all people.
- ❑ All people need deliverance, not only from their enemies, but also from their own sin. All people need restoration to a relationship with God; resulting in spiritual life, wholeness and blessing. This deliverance & restoration is received and realized through faith in Jesus Christ.

Reflection/Application

- There is something wrong with people. If the human condition is like a sickness, what is the correct diagnosis?¹⁰ Seek to understand the biblical diagnosis. Explain it in your own words.
- If you are a Christian, reflect on Psalm 14 and ask yourself these questions: In what ways am I sometimes like the “fool” or evildoer? In what ways can I identify with the mistreated? What correction or encouragement can I take from this psalm and apply to my life today?

⁶ This does not mean that the righteous poor do not suffer. Many do! But they can be comforted by the fact that God is on their side, and that they will be cleared from shame, and have honor restored (e.g., see Matthew 5:10-12).

⁷ We may be quick to exclude ourselves because we are relatively good, but notice the inclusive language in God’s evaluation of mankind: ‘there is no one who does good’ (v. 1b, 3b); ‘not even one’ (v. 3b); ‘all have turned aside’ (v. 3a). ‘While the psalmist does recognize a small group of oppressed righteous whom God protects (14:5-6), the emphasis is clearly on the failure of humanity-at-large to fulfill the creation intention to be God’s image.’ (Gerald Wilson, The NIV Application Commentary: Psalms – Volume 1 [Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2002], 294.)

⁸ There are various ways to define ‘sin.’ One definition is ‘any action or attitude that is opposed to the authority and moral will of God.’ This coincides with the rejection of God’s rightful place in our lives (Psalm 14:1a). ‘Sin’ can also refer to the condition of separation from God (that is, broken relationship) that arises from such rejection.

⁹ ‘Israel’ and ‘Jacob’ refer to the LORD’s covenant people in the Old Testament. ‘Zion’ (in Jerusalem) represented the center of the LORD’s earthly rule.

¹⁰ Of course, different philosophies and religions have different answers to this question. Many point to some type of ignorance, as if education or enlightenment will solve the problem. However, the real problem is much deeper.
